

HINGES

- Specially shaped knuckle ends to resist ligature attachments
- Easy to install
- Supplied with security pin torx fixings for maximum security

The anti-ligature stainless steel butt hinges have a specially machined knuckle end that is chamfered to 45° to resist ligature attachment. Available in square edge and radius edge to suit varying installation preferences.